Conversation and Networking

Co-Hosting Organizations
Build Healthy Places Network brings together leaders from community development, finance, public health, and healthcare, increasing cross-sector collaboration to address both economic and health improvements in low-income neighborhoods. @BHPNetwork

Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia helps formulate and implement monetary policy, supervises banks and bank and savings and loan holding companies, and provides financial services to depository institutions and the federal government. The Community Development and Regional Outreach Department supports the Federal Reserve System’s economic growth objectives by promoting community development in low- and moderate-income communities and fair and impartial access to credit in underserved markets. @philadelphiafed

The Hospital and Healthsystem Association of Pennsylvania (HAP) is the leading voice for the health and well-being of Pennsylvanians. HAP’s member hospitals and health systems provide health services across the continuum of care. @HAPupdates

LISC Philadelphia is one of 35 local offices of Local Initiatives Support Corporation (LISC), a national nonprofit community development organization and CDFI. Overall, LISC has invested $18.6 billion in neighborhoods and rural communities across the United States. @lisc_philly

Philadelphia Association of Community Development Corporations (PACDC) works to create an equitable city where every Philadelphian lives, works, and thrives in a neighborhood that offers an excellent quality of life. As a membership association, PACDC fosters strong community development corporations and non-profit community organizations by enhancing their skills and advocating for resources and policies to create a just and inclusive Philadelphia. @phillycdcs

Speaker Bios

Peter M. Grollman is Senior Vice President of External Affairs at Children’s Hospital of Philadelphia. Peter leads a portfolio of externally facing functions and supports the ongoing achievement of Children's Hospital of Philadelphia’s (CHOP) three-part mission of patient care, education, and research through oversight of the Departments of Public Relations & Marketing; Diversity & Inclusion; External Affairs; Government Affairs; and Community Relations. @ChildrensPhila

Lisa Mensah is President and CEO of Opportunity Finance Network (OFN), the nation’s leading network of Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs), where she expands sources of capital and provides greater visibility for CDFIs. Under her leadership, OFN helps CDFIs leverage public funding with private investment from mainstream financial institutions, socially responsible investors, and philanthropic partners in distressed communities across America. @OppFinance

Monica Medina McCurdy is Vice President of Healthcare Services at Project HOME. McCurdy oversees an expanding healthcare services department. She successfully led a team to obtain Federally Qualified Health Center status in 2013 that focuses on serving individuals and families who are homeless and low-income. @projecthome

Donald Schwarz, Senior Vice President, guides the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation’s strategies and works closely with colleagues, external partners, and community leaders to build a Culture of Health in America, enabling everyone to live their healthiest life possible. Currently, he leads the Foundation’s efforts to promote fair and just opportunities for health and well-being for all in the United States. @RWJF
